There is no safety for Absalom in a home which is not Christian. Voltaire became an infidel at five years of age, and Bishop McCabe a Christian at seven. It was the home influences in each case which made all the difference. The holy spirit, Dr. Stough thinks, might be called the mother side of God. This makes the trinity of Father, Son and Holy Spirit a divine family, of which a Christian home on earth is a faint reflection—a counterpart of God.
